

PRN cues

- . open your mouth and drop your jaw
- make your vowels longer and clearer and your consonants softer
- feel your voice come from the lower part of your mouth / jaw
- prevent your voice from going up to high so it sounds nasal
- use more breath than you usually do in your native language
- go really low on the R's and schwa sounds
- don't stretch the e vowel like in the words 'head' or 'pet'
- extent your Ah's and AA's like in 'hot' or 'hat' when you want to stress a word
- articulate more
- don't rush through a sentence
- make a pause where it helps to convey the meaning
- use more pitch changing